Chapter 51 – Animal Behavior

Niko Tinbergen's four questions to understand animal behavior are:

1. What is the behavior's evolutionary history?
2. How does the behavior aid survival and reproduction?
3. How does the animal's experience during growth and development influence the response?
4. What stimulus elicits the behavior, and what physiological mechanisms mediate the response?

Behavior: action carried out by muscles under control of the nervous system

- Define proximate causation and ultimate causation in relation to animal behavior.

■ Proximate Causation:

- Definition: Proximate causation explains how a behavior happens by looking at the internal mechanisms that cause it. It looks at the things inside the animal that make the behavior occur, like hormones or brain signals.
- Example: Hormones, neural pathways, and sensory inputs are all factors that trigger behavior. For instance, a bird's song might be triggered by hormonal changes as it approaches mating season.
- Key Focus: It looks at the "mechanics" behind behavior, such as brain activity, genes, and environmental triggers.

■ Ultimate Causation:

- Definition: Ultimate causation looks at why a behavior occurs from an evolutionary perspective. It focuses on how the behavior helps the animal survive or have more offspring.
- Example: A male bird sings to attract a mate, ensuring its genes are passed on to the next generation. This behavior has evolved because it increases the chances of reproduction.
