China's Space and Counterspace Programs U S -China Economic and Security Review, U.S.-China Economic and Security Review Commission, 2015-04-03 Today's hearing will examine the capabilities scope and objectives of China's civilian and military space programs. It will also explore the research and development efforts behind these programs and the factors that have contributed to China's recent space technology advances. Finally it will look at the economic and security implications of China's space and counterspace programs for the United States. Over the last decade China has rapidly scaled up and improved its civilian and military space platforms including satellites, ground infrastructure and rockets. These inherently dual use platforms help China achieve economic and scientific missions while supporting expanded PLA operations and military modernization goals. Although China is mostly playing catch up to the United States in space capabilities, China poses a number of challenges to U.S. activities in space. First and foremost is China's development of new counterspace technologies that could disable or destroy U.S. satellites and their support architecture. Report to Congress of the U.S.-China Economic and Security Review Commission U.S.-China Economic and Security Review Commission, 2015

State, Foreign Operations, and Related Programs Appropriations for 2017 United States. Congress. House. Committee on Appropriations. Subcommittee on State, Foreign Operations, and Related Programs, 2016 China's Space and Counterspace Capabilities and Activities Mark Stokes, 2020 This report examines China's military and civil space programs including the role of military civil fusion MCF and international cooperation in the development of its space program. It also addresses Beijing's development and fielding of counterspace capabilities. Aviation Week & Space Technology, 2009 The PLA Beyond Borders Joel Wuthnow, 2021 No longer confined to China's land territory or its near abroad the People's Liberation Army PLA is conducting increasingly complex operations farther and farther from China's continental borders. Within Asia the PLA now regularly operates into the far reaches of the South China Sea and deep into the Western Pacific enforcing China's territorial claims and preparing to counter U.S. intervention in a regional conflict. Beyond Asia the PLA is present on the ground at sea or in military exercises with foreign partners across the Indian Ocean and into the Middle East Africa and Europe. Foreign militaries now regularly encounter the PLA whether in tense incidents or friendly contacts on their home turf and in the global commons. Drawn from a 2019 conference jointly organized by NDU the RAND Corporation and Taiwan's Council on Advanced Policy Studies The PLA Beyond Borders surveys the dimensions of Chinese operations within the Indo Pacific region and globally. The international contributors look both at the underlying enablers of these activities including expeditionary capabilities and logistics command and control and ISR systems as well as new and evolving operational concepts and operational patterns. Employing different analytic lenses they portray a reformed PLA accelerating the pace of its overseas operations and increasing its modernization not only in the traditional domains but also in space and cyber. The Minimum Means of Reprisal Jeffrey G. Lewis,2007 An analysis of China s nuclear and space capabilities deployment strategies and stance in arms control negotiations and the implications for U S defense strategy In The Minimum Means of Reprisal Jeffrey Lewis examines China s nuclear and space capabilities and deployment strategies as well as the Chinese government s stance in arms control negotiations Lewis finds that Chinese officials hold a restrained view about the role of nuclear weapons in national security and maintain a limited nuclear capacity sufficient to deter attack but not large enough for control of these weapons to be compromised The future of cooperative security arrangements in space will depend largely on the U S Chinese relationship and Lewis warns that changes in U S defense strategy including the weaponization of space could signal to China that its capabilities are not sufficient to deter the United States from the use of force Such a shift could cause China to reconsider its use of restraint in nuclear strategy further damaging the already weakened arms control regime and increasing the nuclear threat to the United States and the world

Ding,Phillip Charles Saunders,Scott Harold,2015 How will China use its increasing military capabilities in the future China faces a complicated security environment with a wide range of internal and external threats Rapidly expanding international interests are creating demands for the People s Liberation Army PLA to conduct new missions ranging from protecting Chinese shipping from Somali pirates to evacuating citizens from Libya The most recent Chinese defense white paper states that the armed forces must make serious preparations to cope with the most complex and difficult scenarios so as to ensure proper responses at any time and under any circumstances Based on a conference co sponsored by Taiwan s Council of Advanced Policy Studies RAND Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and National Defense University this book brings together leading experts from the United States and Taiwan to examine how the PLA prepares for a range of domestic border and maritime contingencies The book includes chapters on how the PLA domestic security forces and the civilian government conduct contingency planning and how military commanders can draw upon national level military assets and mobilize civilian resources to execute their plans Substantive chapters assess PLA planning for potential domestic contingencies such as suppressing internal unrest border contingencies involving India Myanmar North Korea Afghanistan and Central Asia and maritime contingencies in both the near and the far seas Authors also examine PLA preparations and performance in disaster relief counterpiracy and noncombatant evacuation operations Improving PLA capabilities are giving Chinese leaders new options to respond to
