Reclaiming Assessment Chris W. Gallagher,2007 No Child Left Behind and accountability programs generally operate via assessment driven instruction causing a de professionalization of teachers and a disengagement of students Chris Gallagher offers us an alternative instruction driven assessment with teachers as the primary assessment instrument It looks like a way to restore teachers as professionals and to restore students as engaged learners and it looks doable Gerald W Bracey author of Reading Educational Research How to Avoid Getting Statistically Snookered This is the most engaging exciting and useful book on assessment I have read in a long time Chris Gallagher draws on the rich experiences of Nebraska educators to show why and how that state's teachers are leading a profoundly important assessment revolution. Monty Neill, Executive Director, FairTest National Center for Fair Open Testing, Reclaiming Assessment details a more humane, more educationally sound way to conduct assessments than what is called for in national and state test-based accountability policies. It examines how Nebraska rejected harmful high-stakes testing in favor of teacher-designed assessments through a groundbreaking local control assessment system. Presenting vital conceptual details and practical information for any state, district, or school committed to finding something better for their students than filling ovals, Chris Gallagher focuses in on what makes Nebraska's plan work and how it can transform and has transformed classrooms and policies. In particular, he homes in on four key aspects of successful teacher-led assessment: engaging teachers by reinvesting them with classroom and curricular-level decision-making power; engaging students through meaningful classroom assessment; engaging colleagues through a new energizing model of professional development; engaging parents and other community members through school community projects. In each instance, Gallagher combines lessons from Nebraska's school improvement program with portraits of practice vignettes written by Nebraska educators that give a close-up look at how the state's assessment system works, why it works, the settings in which it's making a difference, and the leadership styles that match its goals best. Both a challenge to educators to take back assessment from politicized top-level bureaucrats and a call to create a new agenda for contemporary education, Reclaiming Assessment is an ideal starting point for your efforts to return to student-centered, not test-centered assessment. Put your trust in educators' abilities to observe and know their students; then read Reclaiming Assessment, adopt an assessment model that's already succeeding in hundreds of schools, and start improving how your students are assessed today.

Play at the Center of the Curriculum Judith Lieberman Van Hoorn, 2007. For Play courses or Early Childhood Curriculum courses in Early Childhood Education departments and Child and Family Studies departments. This book discusses the value of play in diverse early childhood classrooms and how curriculum can support play. Key changes to this edition include the integration of standards and examples of how encouraging certain types of play can meet standards; expanded coverage of cultural diversity and supporting play in children with special needs; and expanded coverage of integrating the content areas. More than any other books on play, this text focuses on how content areas can be taught and standards met through play.
