Conway's All the World's Fighting Ships, 1860-1905 Roger Chesneau, Conway's All the World's Fighting Ships, 1860-1905, 1979 Conway's All the World's Fighting Ships, 1860-1905 Robert Gardiner, 1979-01 This series contains complete listings of the world's combat ships from the first ironclad to the powerful battleships of World War II to the changes in the world's navies as a result of the collapse of the world's Warsaw Pact Conway's All the World's Fighting Ships, 1860-1905 Eugène M. Koleśnik, 1979 The Late Victorian Navy Roger Parkinson, 2008 A reappraisal of the late Victorian Navy the so called Dark Ages showing how the period was crucial to the emergence of new technology defined by steel and electricity In purely naval terms the period from 1889 to 1906 is often referred to and indeed passed over as the pre Dreadnought era merely a prelude to the lead up to the First World War and thus of relatively little importance it has therefore received little consideration from historians a gap which this book remedies by reviewing the late Victorian Navy from a radically new perspective It starts with the Great Near East crisis of 1878 and shows how its aftermath in the Carnarvon Commission and its evidence produced a profound shift in strategic thinking culminating in the Naval Defence Act of 1889 this evidence from the ship owners provides the definitive explanation of why the Victorian Navy gave up on convoy as the primary means of trade protection in wartime a fundamental question at the time The book also overturns many assumptions about the era especially the perception that the navy was weak and clearly shows that the 1870s and early 1880s brought in crucial technological developments that made the Dreadnought possible The Transformation of British and American Naval Policy in the Pre-Dreadnought Era Robert E. Mullins, John Beeler, 2016-09-30 This volume examines the transformation of British and US naval policy from 1870 to 1889 which resulted in the British Naval Defence Act 1889 the construction of the first modern US battleships and began the naval arms race which culminated in World War One In examining the development of strategic thinking in the Royal and US Navies it overturns conventional wisdom regarding genesis of the Naval Defence Act and the US Navy's about face from a defensive to an offensive strategic orientation It pays particular attention to activities of the key individuals in both countries navies who were instrumental in transforming their respective services organizational culture This study will be of interest not only to historians but to political scientists sociologists and others working in the fields of international relations strategic studies policy analysis and military learning adaptation and innovation It is also essential reading for those interested in the naval arms race during this period

Conway's All the World's Fighting Ships, 1947-1982: The Western powers, 1983 Crisis in the Mediterranean Jon K Hendrickson, 2014-04-15 Prior to July 1914 the extensive British grip on the Mediterranean Sea was beginning to weaken leading to a wide open competition between Austria Hungary Italy France and Great Britain This change Jon Hendrickson contends was driven by three largely understudied events the weakening of the British Mediterranean Fleet to provide more ships for the North Sea Austria Hungary's decision to build a navy capable of operating in the Mediterranean and Italy's decision to seek naval security in the Triple Alliance after the Italo Turkish War. These three factors radically altered the Mediterranean balance of power forcing Britain and France to come to a mutual accommodation and accelerate ship construction to defend their respective interests in the region. However the July Crisis and the ensuing World War obscured these events leading later historians to ignore these events. The Oxford Encyclopedia of Maritime History: Actium, Battle of John B. Hattendorf, 2007. Here is an encyclopedia of maritime history that in scope and depth rivals the expansiveness of the sea itself. The Encyclopedia covers the entire history of seafaring from ancient Egyptian shipbuilders to Viking sea raiders from Nelson and the Napoleonic Wars to the voyages of Cheng Ho from the European conquerors of the New World to the nuclear submarines and supertankers of today. Placing maritime affairs in their larger historical context the Encyclopedia shows how seafaring has both reflected and influenced the major economic cultural military and political developments in world history. In four volumes and nearly 1 000 signed articles by an international group of historians and naval officers the Encyclopedia offers a uniquely integrated approach emphasizing the connections between maritime history and many related fields including naval history shipbuilding navigation and scientific instrumentation maritime art and literature commerce and economics exploration and maritime geography oceanography and hydrology and international maritime law. In so doing the Encyclopedia provides in a single reference work a wealth of information that can otherwise be found only with the help of an extensive library. Alphabetical organization intelligible writing plentiful illustrations cross references bibliographies a synoptic outline and topical index all make The Oxford Encyclopedia of Maritime History an inviting easy to use reference for researchers and enthusiasts alike.
