Cooperation Transboundary Resources International Comparative:

Energy Abstracts for Policy Analysis, 1986      Netherlands Yearbook of International Law 2020 Maarten den Heijer, Harmen van der Wilt, 2022-08-26 This volume of the Netherlands Yearbook of International Law NYIL addresses the question how the assumption that states have a common obligation to achieve a collective public good can be reconciled with the fact that the 195 states of today's world are highly diverse and increasingly unequal in terms of size population politics economy culture climate and historical development The idea of common but differentiated responsibilities is on paper the perfect bridge between the factual inequality and formal equality of states The acknowledgement that states can have common but still different more or less onerous obligations is predicated on the moral and legal concept of global solidarity This book encompasses general contributions on the function and the content of the related principles chapters that describe and evaluate how the principles work in a specific area of international law and chapters that address their efficiency and broader ramifications in terms of compliance free rider behaviour and shifting balances of power The originality of the book resides in the integration of conceptual comparative and practical dimensions of the principles of global solidarity and common but differentiated responsibilities The book is therefore highly recommended reading for both academics with a theoretical interest and those working within international organisations The Netherlands Yearbook of International Law was first published in 1970 It offers a forum for the publication of scholarly articles in a varying thematic area of public international law      Trans-boundary Resource Cooperation in the Lake Victoria Basin Omondi Robert Owino, 2017

Water Law Joseph W. Dellapenna, Joyeeta Gupta, 2021-08-31 This volume of the Elgar Encyclopedia of Environmental Law provides thorough and detailed coverage of the changing meanings and roles of water law from the local to the global It examines the rules of ownership rights of use and dispute resolution that address access allocation and protection of water resources Written by leading scholars and practitioners from across the globe this authoritative volume will be a vital resource for all scholars and students of environmental law      The Evolution of the Law and Politics of Water Joseph W. Dellapenna, Gupta Joyeeta, 2009-04-21 According to a famous Talmudic story Babylonian Talmud Tractate Shabbat 31a a gentile once approached Rabbi Hillel and asked to be taught the entire Torah while standing on one foot Hillel replied Love your neighbour as yourself That is the entire Torah The rest is simply an explanation Go and learn it In much the same way Jewish law can be described in one word Torah All the rest is simply an explanation The Torah also known as the Bible the five books of Moses and the Pentateuch was written over 3 000 years ago Since then Jewish law has developed various interpretations and applications of the Torah interpretations of those interpretations and so on Jewish law contains civil dictates as well as religious protocol Problems that arose in the framework of religious life and problems surrounding civil relationships both found solutions in the same legal source the Torah and the Halacha the Jewish legal interpretations and rulings This chapter on water law in the Jewish tradition provides insight into Jewish law and custom in general and rules related to the protection of water sources in particular One should not look however to find a written code of Jewish law as there is none Selected Water Resources Abstracts, 1991-10 Cooperation in the Law of Transboundary Water Resources Christina Leb, 2013-07-25 Climate change population growth and the increasing demand for water are all capable of leading to disputes over transboundary water systems Dealing with these challenges will require the enhancing of adaptive capacity the improving of the quality of water resources management and a reduction in the risk of conflict between riparian states Such changes can only be brought about through significant international cooperation Christina Leb's analysis of the duty to cooperate and the related rights and obligations highlights the interlinkages between this duty and the principles of equitable and reasonable utilisation and the prevention of transboundary harm In doing so she considers the law applicable to both international watercourses and transboundary aquifers and explores the complementarities and interaction between the rules of international water law and the related obligations of climate change and human rights law Barcelona

Conference on the Law of the World, 6-11 October, 1991 Conference on the Law of the World, 1991 Governing the Nile River Basin Mwangi Kimenyi, John Mbaku, 2015-02-12 The effective and efficient management of water is a major problem not just for economic growth and development in the Nile River basin but also for the peaceful coexistence of the millions of people who live in the region Of critical importance to the people of this part of Africa is the reasonable equitable and sustainable management of the waters of the Nile River and its tributaries Written by scholars trained in economics and law and with significant experience in African political economy this book explores new ways to deal with conflict over the allocation of the waters of the Nile River and its tributaries The monograph provides policymakers in the Nile River riparian states and other stakeholders with practical and effective policy options for dealing with what has become a very contentious problem the effective management of the waters of the Nile River The analysis is quite rigorous but also extremely accessible

Collected courses of the Hague Academy of International Law Hague Academy of International Law, 2009

Boundaries of Cooperation: Cyprus, de Facto Partition, and the Delimitation of Trans Boundary Resource Management Peter Hocknell, 2001-02-14 As a developing international norm the process of managing transboundary resources represents a significant opportunity for the development of peaceful cooperation through equitable and sustainable means and yet paradoxically this management process has the power also to create new tensions and reinforce pre existing divisions amongst interested parties This book explores the manifestations of this contradiction in the de facto partitioned state of Cyprus How has transboundary resource management operated across Cyprus's de facto boundary Why have problem solving mechanisms formed to deal with some transboundary resources failed to achieve success in connection with others Has it been possible to de link resource conflict issues from the protracted political conflict so that the former could be resolved without reference to the latter This book provides the most comprehensive demonstration yet that post partition Cyprus has exhibited a number of islands of cooperation over transboundary resource management and that under certain

politico geographical conditions the Cyprus conflict has not been unchanging and intractable Of equal importance however it identifies an increasingly diverse and complex form of transboundary relations that have coexisted with and have been directly related to a central cleavage over the political economy of recognition Cooperation has become both for the Greek Cypriot and the Turkish Cypriot communities a matter of judging its importance in terms of potential gains losses It is demonstrated that as with a majority of partitioned states transboundary resource management in Cyprus is patently concerned with configurations of power transboundary resource needs the role of interests and ideas and the functions of the partition boundary itself Set within this framework transboundary resources in Cyprus appear increasingly prevalent in the island s affairs and represent a potentially critical focus both for future cooperation and conflict While this book does not blindly offer a prescription for the resolution of this dilemma it seeks to enhance what has been a surprisingly circumscribed understanding not only of cooperation within and across the boundaries of Cyprus but also of the limits to that cooperation

Analyzing media coverage of the GERD negotiations. A comparison between Ethiopian and Egyptian perspectives Selam Mulugeta, 2024-03-08 Master s Thesis from the year 2021 in the subject Communications Journalism Journalism Professions grade A Addis Ababa University Language and communication course Journalism language English abstract This paper aims to shed light on the differences and similarities in the coverage of the Ethiopian Reporter Newspaper and Egyptian Ahram Online on the Grand Ethiopian Renaissance Dam GERD tripartite negotiations between January and August 2020 By applying the theories of agenda setting and framing using both quantitative and qualitative methods this study provides an in depth analysis of media representation and its potential influence on public perception and policy This study examines the coverage of the GERD negotiations by the Ethiopian Reporter Newspaper and Ahram Online within a specific period in 2020 By using agenda setting and framing theories the reports were analyzed for their perspectives on legal technical developmental international and mistrust aspects A particular focus was placed on the different framings While Ahram Online preferred the internationalization framework to place the negotiations in a broader geopolitical context the reporter placed greater emphasis on Ethiopia s natural and sovereign right to its water resources The results show clear differences in the use of specific frames indicating divergent national interests and narratives It also highlights the importance of a cooperative media platform for Ethiopia Egypt and Sudan to reduce tensions and build trust between the people of the three countries
