Wicihitowin Gord Bruyere (Amawaajibitang), Michael Anthony Hart (Kaskitémahikan), Raven Sinclair (Ótiskewápiwskew), 2020-05-06T00:00:00Z Wicihitowin is the first Canadian social work book written by First Nations Inuit and Métis authors who are educators at schools of social work across Canada. The book begins by presenting foundational theoretical perspectives that develop an understanding of the history of colonization and theories of decolonization and Indigenous social work. It goes on to explore issues and aspects of social work practice with Indigenous people to assist educators, researchers, students, and practitioners to create effective and respectful approaches to social work with diverse populations. Traditional Indigenous knowledge that challenges and transforms the basis of social work with Indigenous and other peoples comprises a third section of the book. Wicihitowin concludes with an eye to the future which the authors hope will continue to promote the innovations and creativity presented in this groundbreaking work. New Challenges to Food Security Ian Christoplos, Adam Pain, 2014-11-13 Food security is high on the political agenda. Fears about societal insecurity due to food price increases and hunger grave scenarios regarding the effects of climate change and general uncertainty about the impacts of investments in biofuels and so-called land grabbing on food prices and availability have meant that food security is now recognised as being a multifaceted challenge. This book is unique in that it will bring together analyses of these different factors that impact on food security. This volume will describe a range of different perspectives on food security with an emphasis on the various meanings that are applied to food security crisis. The challenges to be reviewed include market volatility, climate change, and state fragility. Analyses of responses to food security crises and risk will cover rural and urban contexts, arenas of national policy formation, and global food regimes and investment in land and productive technologies. This book is unique in two respects. First, it takes a step back from the normative literature focused on specific factors, for example, climate change, agricultural production, or market volatility, to look instead at the dynamic interplay between these new challenges. It helps readers to understand that food security is not one discourse but is rather related to how these different factors generate multiple risks and opportunities. Second, through the case studies, the book particularly emphasises how these factors come together at local levels as farmers, entrepreneurs, consumers, local government officials, and others are making key decisions about what will be done to address food security and whose food security will be given priority. The book will explore how food production and consumption is embedded in powerful political and market forces and how these influence local actions. ABA Journal, 1974-12 The ABA Journal serves the legal profession.
