The Digital Future of English Simone Murray, 2025-07-18 More than any other academic discipline literary studies is the creation of print culture How then can it thrive in the digital era Early 1990s predictions of the book's imminent demise presented a simplistic either/or choice between the legacy of moribund print and triumphalist digital technology Yet we have grown to experience the two media as complexly interdependent and even complementary Clearly digital does not kill print But literary studies in the digital era cannot simply resume business as usual It is urgently necessary to reconsider the discipline's founding assumptions in light of digital technology The digital era prompts a rethinking of literary studies object of study as well as its methods theories audiences and pedagogical practices What counts as literature necessarily shifts in an age of proliferating born digital texts and do it yourself DIY online publication Where should literary studies sit institutionally and how might it graft contextually oriented social sciences methods onto its traditionally humanistic mode of textual analysis Why should literary study continue to marginalize emotional responses to texts when online communities bond via readerly affect Who is the audience for literary criticism in an age where expertise is routinely challenged yet communication with global book-loving publics has never been technologically easier Finally how can we utilize digital tools to rejuvenate literary studies pedagogy and help English staff better connect with millennial age students Literary studies has been convulsed for decades by debates over electronic literature and more recently digitally aided distant reading But these discussions still mostly confine themselves to demarcating our proper object of study We need to think more expansively about digital technology's impact on the underpinning tenets of the discipline Literary Media Studies is pitched at fellow literary scholars book historians media theorists cultural sociologists digital humanists and those working at the interface of these converging disciplines It models constructive engagement with contemporary digital culture Most importantly it brings a burst of sorely needed optimism to the question of literary studies digital future Scientific

American, 1896 Book Review Digest, 1978 Excerpts from and citations to reviews of more than 8 000 books each year drawn from coverage of 109 publications Book Review Digest provides citations to and excerpts of reviews of current juvenile and adult fiction and nonfiction in the English language Reviews of the following types of books are excluded government publications textbooks and technical books in the sciences and law Reviews of books on science for the general reader however are included The reviews originate in a group of selected periodicals in the humanities social sciences and general science published in the United States Canada and Great Britain Publisher The Ohio State Engineer, 1943 The Routledge Companion to Migration Literature Gigi Adair, Rebecca Fasselt, Carly McLaughlin, 2024-07-30 The Routledge Companion to Migration Literature offers a comprehensive survey of an increasingly important field It demonstrates the influence of the age of migration on literature and showcases the role of literature in shaping socio-political debates and creating knowledge about the migratory trajectories lives and experiences that have shaped the post 1989 world The contributors examine a broad range of literary texts and critical approaches that cover the spectrum between voluntary and forced migration. In doing so they reflect the shift in recent years from the author centric study of migrant writing to a more inclusive conception of migration literature. The book contains sections on key terms and critical approaches in the field, important genres of migration literature, a range of forms and trajectories of migration with a particular focus on the global South and on migration literature's relevance in social contexts outside the academy. Its range of scholarly voices on literature from different geographical contexts and in different languages is central to its call for and contribution to a pluriversal turn in literary migration studies in future scholarship. This Companion will be of particular interest to scholars working on contemporary migration literature and it also offers an introduction to new students and scholars from other fields. The 'recommendation Generation' Hannah Bright, 2015

The Truth According to Us Annie Barrows, 2015-06-12

Annie Barrows celebrated co-author of the global bestseller The Guernsey Literary and Potato Peel Pie Society once again evokes the charm and eccentricity of a small town filled with extraordinary characters. In the summer of 1938 Layla Beck is forced out of the lap of luxury and sent by her Senator father to work on the Federal Writers Project, a New Deal jobs program. Assigned to cover the history of the little mill town of Macedonia, West Virginia, Layla envisions a summer of tedium. However, once she secures a room in the home of the unconventional Romeyn family, she is completely drawn into their complex world. At the Romeyn house, twelve-year-old Willa is desperate to acquire her favourite virtues of ferocity and devotion, but her search leads her into a thicket of mysteries, including the questionable business that occupies her charismatic father and the reason her adored aunt Jottie remains unmarried. Layla's arrival strikes a match to the family's veneer, bringing to light buried secrets that will tell a new tale about the Romeyns and their deep entanglement in Macedonia's history. As Willa peels back the layers of her family's past and Layla delves deeper into town legend, everyone involved is transformed, and their personal histories completely rewritten. Quirky, loveable, and above all human, this novel of small town life in the 1930s is an immersive experience that will leave readers reeling and wanting more. Annie Barrows leaves no doubt that she is a storyteller of rare caliber, with wisdom and insight to spare. Barrows is at her best here. Every page rings like a bell. Paula McLain, author of The Paris Wife. As delightfully eccentric as Guernsey, yet refreshingly different. The temperatures are soaring, but it's nothing compared to the heat generated by this sizzling story. Washington Post.

Reading Bestsellers Danielle Fuller, DeNel Rehberg Sedo, 2023-04-27

Readers are essential agents in the production of bestsellers, but bestsellers are not essential to readers' leisure pursuits. The starting point in this Element is readers' opinions about and their uses of bestselling fiction in English. Readers' relationships with bestsellers bring into view their practices of book selection and their navigation of book recommendation culture. Based on three years of original research (2019–2021), including a quantitative survey with readers interviews with social media influencers and qualitative work with international Gen Z readers in a private Instagram chat space the authors highlight three core actions contemporary multimodal readers make choosing connecting and responding in a transmedia era where on and offline media practices co exist The contemporary multimodal reader or the MMR3 they argue illustrates the pervasiveness of recommendation culture reliance on trusted others and an ethic of responsiveness
