Party School of the CPC Central Committee and the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences and this book is the cumulative output of his work with fellow researchers and scholars Rising China in the Changing World Economy Liming Wang, 2012-03-12 China's rapid and sustained growth over last thirty years has propelled it to become the world's second largest economy today and potentially the largest in the foreseeable future. As one of the first major economies pulling out of recession and the last remaining major socialist country in the world today, China presents a challenge to established thinking on the essential primacy of global capitalism and the settled nature of the world system as China becomes more integrated into the world economy and the international system both are themselves potentially transformed as a result of China's involvement. This book explores a wide range of issues connected with the impact of China on the global economy and the prevailing international system. Subjects covered include China's multinationals, international acquisitions, the exchange rate, research and development, and technology transfer. China's emerging major business groupings and small and medium sized enterprises.

Incentivized Development in China David J. Bulman, 2016-10-18 China's economy as a whole has developed rapidly over the past 35 years and yet its richest county is over 100 times richer in per capita terms than its poorest county. To explain this vast variation in development, David J. Bulman investigates the political foundations of local economic growth in China, focusing on the institutional and economic roles of county level leaders and the career incentives that shape their behaviour. Through a close examination of six counties complemented by unique nation wide data, he presents and explores two related questions: what is the role of County Party Secretaries in determining local governance and growth outcomes? And why do County Party Secretaries emphasize particular developmental priorities? Suitable for scholars of political economy, development economics, and comparative politics, this original study analyzes the relationship between political institutions, local governance, and leadership roles within Chinese government to explain the growing divergence in economic development between counties.

New Directions in China's Agricultural Lending Fred Gale, Robert Callender, 2006 China has substantially boosted lending to farmers/agribusiness in recent years. The balance of loans to farmers doubled between 2001-2005. Loans for agribusiness, rural infrastructure, rose as well. Rural credit co-op banks that lend to agribusiness are being reformed/commercialized but agribusiness lending is still largely policy driven. The boost in farm lending is one of several policy initiatives to aid farmers. Chinese agribusiness remains dominated by extremely small farms using little physical capital but rising investment is helping the sector diversify, is improving the quality/safety of agribusiness produce. The campaign to inject capital into rural China is enabled by an abundant supply of domestic savings, large inflows of foreign investment.

30 Years of Urban Change in China's 10 Core Cities Ali Cheshmehzangi, Tian Tang, 2024-12-02 As a continuation of our award winning book China's City Cluster Development in the Race to Carbon Neutrality, this book covers China's major urban changes over the last 30 years. Unlike the previous book where we highlighted regional development issues, this book explicitly explores the city cases, particularly those that are considered core cities in China. Based on the micro historical analysis of China's urbanization trend and urban development patterns we see that cities in China have played a significant role in driving the country's sustainable development agenda. In a way they have had both positive and negative impacts on achieving sustainable development. We look at these last three decades mainly because during this period China's urbanization became unprecedented; the central government made several pledges and signed many international agreements related to sustainable development and China grew rapidly to become the second global economic power. Aligned with the overarching Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) and the more recent Carbon Neutrality Plan (CNP), Chinese core cities played a significant part in regional development, urban-rural relations, industrial clustering, the development of free trade zones and special economic zones etc. All these recent developments are due to China's ongoing urbanization and urban development. 30 Years of Urban Change in China's 10 Core Cities is a mapping study of China's core cities and their changes over three decades of rapid urbanization, urban growth and economic development. We explicitly highlight each selected city's development trends, sustainable development plans and major strategies. In this Volume, out of our two connected volumes, we summarise lessons learnt from all 10 case study examples and we hope they can be utilized for other developing and rapidly urbanizing nations. We expect this book to be a valuable resource for local governments, authorities, urban planners, urbanists, practitioners, developers and urban researchers. We trust China is no longer a developing country and much of these recent progressions are owed to its structured urban development strategies, robust governmental structure and progressive attitude to growth and development. Hence, this topic coverage at the point where China's urbanization is shifting to high quality urbanization is essential and beneficial to multiple stakeholders.
