Covering a multitude of aspects related to Climate Change, Biodiversity, Contaminants, Geological Energy and Ethics, leading scientists provide foundational essays that enable researchers to define and scrutinize information, ideas, relationships, meanings and ideas within the Anthropocene concept. Questions widely debated among scientists, humanists, conservationists, politicians and others are included, providing discussion on when the Anthropocene began, what to call it, whether it should be considered an official geological epoch, whether it can be contained in time and how it will affect future generations. Although the idea that humanity has driven the planet into a new geological epoch has been around since the dawn of the 20th century, the term Anthropocene was only first used by ecologist Eugene Stoermer in the 1980s and hence popularized in its current meaning by atmospheric chemist Paul Crutzen in 2000. Presents comprehensive and systematic coverage of topics related to the Anthropocene with a focus on the Geosciences and Environmental science. Includes point-counterpoint articles debating key aspects of the Anthropocene, giving users an even-handed navigation of this complex area. Provides historic seminal papers and essays from leading scientists and philosophers who demonstrate changes in the Anthropocene concept over time
