Phonics Screening Check

What is phonics?

Phonics is the study of the sounds of words and how they are written. It is the study of the relationship between the sounds of words and the letters that represent them.

Phonics is a key part of learning to read and write. It helps children to understand how words are made and how they are written. This helps them to read and write more easily.

How is phonics taught?

Phonics is taught in a variety of ways. Some children learn to read by looking at the letters and sounds of words. Others learn by listening to the sounds of words and trying to write them. Some children learn by using a combination of these methods.

Phonics is taught in a way that is suitable for each child. Teachers will use a variety of methods to help children learn to read and write. This may include using letters, sounds, and words in a variety of ways.

What is the phonics screening check?

The phonics screening check is a test that is given to children at the end of Year One. It is designed to check whether children have learned the basic skills of phonics. The test is given to all children in Year One.

What is the purpose of the phonics screening check?

The purpose of the phonics screening check is to check whether children have learned the basic skills of phonics. This helps teachers to know whether children need more help with phonics. It also helps to know whether children are ready to move on to other parts of their reading and writing.

What is the result of the phonics screening check?

The result of the phonics screening check is a score. This score is given to the child's teacher. The teacher will use this score to know whether the child needs more help with phonics. It will also help the teacher to know whether the child is ready to move on to other parts of their reading and writing.
