Production Cultures Albert Sharra, Ufuoma Akpojivi, 2025-05-15 This volume delves into the intricate relationship between technology and media production emphasizing its influence across political socio economic and cultural contexts. By 2010 the integration of computing and automated systems had already begun revolutionizing media production prompting traditional outlets to embrace a digital first approach. Concepts like dual management processes and the fusion of traditional and digital systems have emerged challenging conventional norms. What sets this transformation apart is the gradual replacement of human decision making with communicative artificial intelligence and automation. Technology now plays a central role in producing and distributing news and Ads fundamentally altering the media landscape. However there has been limited exploration of the broader implications of these advancements particularly from the perspective of the Global South. This edited volume seeks to address this gap by featuring papers that examine how technology has reshaped newsroom and advertorial processes in countries like Malawi South Africa and Nigeria. Through a collection of insightful essays readers are invited to explore the transformative power of technology in media production packaging and distribution systems. From digital innovations to traditional media adaptations this volume offers a comprehensive understanding of the evolving media landscape in the age of technology. Rhythms of the Soul
