Advancements in Sustainable Architecture and Energy Efficiency González-Lezcano, Roberto A., 2021-06-18

Thermal comfort and indoor air quality IAQ issues have gained significant interest in the scientific and technical community involved in building performance analysis and other related subjects In terms of thermal comfort the achievement and maintenance of a thermally acceptable indoor environment is affected by energy costs and energy poverty is a widespread problem globally There is a call for energy efficient architecture for a developed and sustainable world However with the use of renewable energy that increased considerably in recent years new technical challenges arose for the energy sector Consumers are key players in this context as flexibility in demand is crucial to cope with the intermittent nature of most renewable energy sources Active demand side participation is particularly important to ensure the efficient use of locally and globally available energy Sustainability human comfort and healthy living environments have become top priorities

Advancements in Sustainable Architecture and Energy Efficiency explores how housing is a key health factor for individuals and looks at factors such as air quality ventilation hygrothermal comfort lighting physical environment building efficiency and other areas as important pieces in healthy architecture It discusses how the poor application of these parameters can directly affect human health and how sustainable architecture provides a solution Beyond just labeling the important facets of architecture for healthy living this book will look at different perspectives of energy consumption and demand to ensure sustainable energy increased energy efficiency improved energy policies and reasonable energy costs for homes This book is ideal for architects designers engineers energy engineers environmental scientists practitioners researchers academicians and students interested in architecture that is both conducive to healthy living and energy efficiency Preparing Early
