Meaning Predictability in Word Formation Pavol J. J. tekaue, 2005-03-18 This book aims to contribute to a growing interest amongst psycholinguists and morphologists in the mechanisms of meaning predictability. It presents a brand new model of the meaning prediction of novel context free naming units relating the wordformation and wordinterpretation processes. Unlike previous studies mostly focussed on N N compounds the scope of this book is much wider. It not only covers all types of complex words but also discusses a whole range of predictability boosting and reducing conditions. Two measures are introduced: the Predictability Rate and the Objectified Predictability Rate in order to compare the strength of predictable readings both within a word and relative to the most predictable readings of other coinages. Four extensive experiments indicate inter alia the equal predicting capacity of native and non native speakers, the close interconnection between linguistic and extra linguistic factors, the important role of prototypical semes and the usual dominance of a single central reading.
