

Prostate Cancer Awareness

Screening and Early Detection Gives Guys the Best Outcomes

Other than skin cancer, prostate cancer is the most common cancer in American men. It is also the second leading cause of death in American men, after lung cancer.

The American Cancer Society estimates that in 2022, about 34,500 men will die from prostate cancer.

Over 268,490 new total cases of prostate cancer are estimated to be diagnosed in 2021.

The lifetime risk of developing prostate cancer is 1 in 8 men. About 1 in 41 will die from it.

More than 3.1 million men who have been diagnosed with prostate cancer are still alive today.

AGE

About 60% of prostate cancer cases are diagnosed in men who are 65 or older. While it is rare in men under 40, the chance of having prostate cancer rises rapidly after age 50. The average age of men at diagnosis is about 66.

ETHNICITY

African-American men and in Caribbean men of African ancestry than in men of other races. And when it does develop in these men, they tend to be younger.

RISK FACTORS

GEOGRAPHY

Prostate cancer is most common in North America, northwestern Europe, Australia, and on Caribbean islands. It is less common in Asia, Africa, Central America, and South America.

FAMILY HISTORY

Prostate cancer seems to run in some families, which suggests that there may be an inherited or genetic factor. Having a father or brother with prostate cancer more than doubles a man's risk of developing the disease. The risk is much higher for men with several affected relatives, particularly if their relatives were young when the cancer was found.

GENETICS

Several inherited gene changes (mutations) seem to raise prostate cancer risk, but they probably account for only a small percentage of cases overall.

SYMPTOMS OF PROSTATE CANCER

Most prostate cancers are found early, through screening. Early prostate cancer usually causes no symptoms. More advanced prostate cancers can sometimes cause symptoms including:

- ▶ Problems urinating, including a slow or weak urinary stream or the need to urinate more often, especially at night
- ▶ Blood in the urine or semen
- ▶ Trouble getting an erection (erectile dysfunction or ED)
- ▶ Pain in the hips, back (spine), chest (ribs), or other areas from cancer that has spread to bones
- ▶ Weakness or numbness in the legs or feet, or even loss of bladder or bowel control from cancer pressing on the spinal cord

EARLY DETECTION AND SCREENING

Prostate cancer can often be found early by testing for prostate-specific antigen (PSA) levels in a man's blood. Another way to find prostate cancer is the digital rectal exam (DRE). If the results of either of these tests is abnormal, further testing (such as a prostate biopsy) is often done to see if a man has cancer.

CONCERNS ABOUT PROSTATE CANCER SCREENING

The American Cancer Society (ACS) recommends that men have a chance to make an informed decision with their health care provider about whether to be screened for prostate cancer. The decision should be made after getting information about the uncertainties, risks, and potential benefits of prostate cancer screening.

The discussion about screening should take place at:

- ▶ Age 50 for men who are at average risk of prostate cancer and are expected to live at least 10 more years.
- ▶ Age 45 for men at high risk of developing prostate cancer. This includes African Americans and men who have a first-degree relative (father or brother) diagnosed with prostate cancer at an early age (younger than age 65).
- ▶ Age 40 for men at even higher risk (those with more than one first-degree relative who had prostate cancer at an early age).
