Stone,1969 The Commodity Futures Trading Guide Richard J. Teweles,1969 The Beginners Guide to Commodities Investing Brian Rice,2004-03 Although there have been many books written on the topic of commodities there are very few that are useful to the beginner For that reason we have written this book The information in this book is presented in a way that is easy for the beginner and intermediate trader to read and understand The primary motivation for writing this book is to help others to avoid the costly pitfalls that we encountered in our first trading year It was an extremely expensive lesson in the commodities market but very educational There is always going to be some expenses and unanticipated problems in the learning process commonly known as the learning curve They should not be as costly or as painful to the ego or the pocketbook as ours were Our exceptionally expensive learning curve was primarily due to the courses that we followed Although the courses we took contained some important basic information that we needed for moderate beginning success the courses remained basic and did not teach us enough intermediate material that was necessary for us to have further success This resulted in us needing to buy yet another course which consisted of manuals tapes videos workbooks and CD ROM s at hundreds of dollars to get a little more information In no time at all we had bought a succession of courses just to get the rest of the information we needed to have some success at commodity trading With this in mind here is the information that many of the courses left out Please note that charts contained in this book are exclusively from Gecko Software We have found Gecko Software to be one of the best charting companies out there with the use of some great tools indicators and past data readily available Some charts are from the distant past and some are more current However all the charts provide enduring examples and are everlasting
