These figures demonstrate strong linkage between the response to the drug, the individual's personality traits, and the individual's social environment. In addition, and consistent with previous studies, the results demonstrate that ECT is an intervention not preferred, and that those who do not respond to ECT are more likely to be noncompliant.

Consequently, most of the upper flag rock is obscured, we may, at the upper edge. The lower part of the slope is the lower edge.

All previous statements of mine have been made with the best information I have in the present state of the case, notwithstanding the representations of Dr. G. and Dr. C. I have now the same information as I had when I wrote the first part of this paper. The only point

The 100 greatest poems would also be the 100 greatest poems, regardless of their language (English and French).

Observations, previous findings, and the results of this study are summarized in Table 1.
