Christina Zwarg, 2018-05-31 In a new account of the relationship between Margaret Fuller and Ralph Waldo Emerson Christina Zwarg recreates a feminist conversation that has gone unheard In Zwarg's view the intimate yet restrained letters between the two writers are most significant in confronting the challenges posed by gender and desire Focusing on their exploration of Charles Fourier's utopianism and particularly his concept of passionate attraction Zwarg offers the only detailed reading of Emerson's letters to Fuller Postcolonial Studies Pramod K. Institutions in Cultures Robert Lumsden,Rajeev Shridhar Patke,1996 The book represents a selection of papers presented at an international symposium in Singapore on the role of theory and practice in the mutually interactive and mutating relations between institutions and cultures In effect the papers turn about a single theme the ways in which power is expressed through those institutions by means of which cultures mediate their requirements The symposium brought together scholars and academics from a variety of disciplines including literature philosophy cultural studies sociology comparative literature and comparative religions In terms of the geography of cultures and the history of institutions the range of reference to this book of the symposium is global from Hong Kong awaiting 1997 through the travails of political democracy in Singapore and Cultural Studies a la Greenblatt or under the aegis of Shakespeare as cultural idol through German Romantic theory and its relevance to current theorizing about theory in America to Zen Buddhism and Nagarjuna and how these two sources refract the concerns of Jung Lacan and Derrida through Colonialism and postcoloniality and how they have shaped identity and mediated power to the current crises in education created by these mediations specifically in literary studies The aim of the symposium was twofold to theorize about the impulse to theorize in relation to the plurality of cultures and institutions which comprises our contemporary world and to ground this impulse in those specificities and contingencies which provide resistance to such theorizing
