16. An sodium chloride dissolved in water. What happens to the sodium and chloride ions?

The sodium and chloride ions are separated and surrounded by the water molecules.

17. Explain the attraction of the water molecules around the sodium ions and chloride ions.

Because the sodium ion is positively charged, it attracts the negatively charged portion of the water molecule (the oxygen atom) and repels the positively charged portion of the water molecule (the hydrogen atom). Because the chloride ion is negatively charged, it attracts the positively charged portion of the water molecule and repels the negatively charged portion.

18. How does the strength of the attraction between water molecules and sodium and chloride ions compare with the strength of the attraction between the sodium ions and chloride ions? How do you know?

The attraction between the water molecules and the sodium and chloride ions is greater than the attraction between the sodium and chloride ions. The greater strength of attraction between the water molecules and the ions is what causes the solution process to occur.

19. In a glass cup, add the rest of solute may be dissolved.

Starting at the bottom of the solution, breaking the solution into smaller pieces, and heating the solvent.

In your textbook, read about heat of solution, solubility and factors that affect solubility for each solute and solvents, with tips or jobs.

True _____ 16. The overall energy change that occurs when a solute dissolves is called the heat of solution.

False _____ 17. Solubility is a property of the solute, amount of water the solute can dissolve in a given amount of solvent at a specified temperature and pressure.

False _____ 18. Solubility continues to drop as the solute concentration is increased.

False _____ 19. Heat of solution is endothermic.
