

FROM GENE TO PROTEIN

How is the message of a gene translated by cells into a specific trait, such as brown hair or type A blood?

In 1909, Archibald Garrod was the first to suggest that genes dictate phenotypes through enzymes that catalyze specific chemical reactions in the cell.

Biochemists accumulate evidence that showed that cells degrade organic molecules in a series of steps, each catalyzed by an enzyme.

George Beadle and Edward Tatum (1940s) suggested that a single gene specifies each protein.

- They worked with fungus Neurospora crassa.
- Neurospora is a haploid organism.
- One gene - one protein hypothesis.

Researchers realized that not all proteins are enzymes.

They shifted from one gene - one enzyme to one gene - one protein.

In the mid 1950's it became evident that the genetic information in DNA contains the code for all the proteins needed by the cell.

Most of the basic work was done with bacterial DNA.

The information encoded in DNA is used to specify the sequences of amino acids in proteins.

BASIC PRINCIPLES OF TRANSCRIPTION AND TRANSLATION

Genes provide the instructions for making specific proteins.

RNA or ribonucleic acid serves as an intermediary between DNA and protein.

DNA provides the template for the sequence of RNA nucleotides in the same way it provides the template for a new DNA strand.

DNA → RNA → protein

Transcription is the synthesis of RNA under the direction of DNA. This takes place in the nucleus of the cell.

- The immediate product of transcription is the pre-messenger RNA, and RNA processing yields the finished mRNA.
- The initial product of transcription including the RNA sections that are not translated into proteins is called a primary transcript.
