Rothbauer, Kjell Ivar Skjerdingstad, Lynne (E.F.) McKechnie, Knut Oterholm, 2016-06-30 This book is about the experience of reading what reading feels like how it makes people feel how people read and under what conditions what drives people to read and conversely what halts the individual in the pursuit of the pleasures of reading. The authors consider reading in all of its richness as they explore readers relationships with diverse textual and digital forms. This edited volume is divided into three sections Theory Practice and Politics. The first provides insights into ways of seeing thinking and conceptualizing the experience of reading. The second features a variety of individual and social practices of reading. The third explores the political and ethical aspects of the reading experience raising questions about the role that reading plays in democracy and civic participation. With contributions from multidisciplinary scholars from around the world this book provides provocative insights into what it means to be a reader reading in and across various social cultural and political contexts. Its unifying theme of the reader's experience of reading is put into dialogue with theories practices and politics making this a rewarding read for graduate students faculty researchers and librarians working across a range of academic fields.
