Abstract

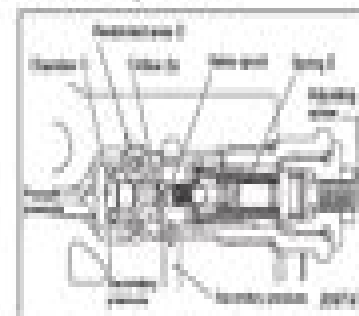

Downloaded from <http://ajphaphapublications.sagepub.com> at 11:00 11 September 2014

The above illustration shows the bit stream value when speed 1 is at "increasing position."

liquid 4, pushed in body 2, is at the position as shown in the illustration. The center bypass part is too thick. The secondary part of flow regulator valve 3 is close to the 11 inch return nozzle.

When speed V is pushed in the body, roller R of the left bearing frame is pushed in, causing the contact (CR). The main body controller (MBC) detects this and leads motor to extend roller R to activate. When the roller activates, pin P of the left half-shaft roller R is released to the passage B . Then, lead shaft roller R moves to the left (in the illustration by pressure of the $R2$ post and oil in the $R2$ post flows to the $T1$ post via the front roller R).

The flow regulator valve keeps the maximum speed constant during cylinder direct expansion of the hot gas in the tank.
