Math Placement Test

The Math Placement Test is a computerized test that is used to determine the appropriate level of math course for each student. The test is designed to assess a student's knowledge of basic math concepts and skills, including arithmetic, algebra, geometry, and trigonometry. The test is adaptive, meaning that it will adjust the difficulty of the questions based on the student's performance. The test is typically completed in one sitting and takes approximately 45 minutes to complete. The results of the test will be used to place the student in the appropriate math course, which may be a developmental math course or a college-level math course. The placement test is not a final grade, but it is an important tool for ensuring that students are placed in the correct math course for their level of understanding.

Students who are placed in developmental math courses will be required to take a developmental math course as part of their math requirement. These courses are designed to help students build a strong foundation in math concepts and skills, and to prepare them for more advanced math courses. The developmental math courses are typically taught in a classroom setting, and may include lectures, assignments, and quizzes. The courses are designed to be challenging, but also provide support and guidance to help students succeed.

Requirements for Math Test Scores

Students who are required to take the Math Placement Test must score a minimum of 70% on the test. Students who score below 70% will be required to take a developmental math course as part of their math requirement. Students who score 70% or higher will be placed in a college-level math course.
