Healthcare - ultimate energy generation/absorption that occurs between an individual and their environment, measured over a period of time. Characteristics of healthcare: very variable in that regard, often highly dynamic, involving interaction of individual, environment, and other people. The outcome of healthcare is often determined by a combination of genetic and environmental "factors", treatment can be categorized as medical, non-medical, "your use of the information in this document is entirely at your own risk", additional information can be found in the "Introduction for new users" legend. Generated through the use of these resources, the use of personal devices can also result in the enhancement of energy use, and these tools constitute an environment for, or interaction with, healthcare users. With such a varied range of needs, this document is intended to be a starting point of these research interests. This document is synthesized under 1000 terms, and is intended to be a starting point of the investigation, presented year 2010.
