Child Health in Complex Emergencies Program on Forced Migration and Health, Mailman School of Public Health, Columbia University, National Research Council, Committee on Population, Roundtable on the Demography of Forced Migration, Lulu Muhe, William M. Weiss, Anne Henderson Siegle, Dory Storms, Meenakshi Ramakrishnan, William J. Moss, 2005-12-08 Addressing the health needs of children in complex emergencies is critical to the success of relief efforts and requires coordinated and effective interventions However little systematic work has been undertaken to evaluate such care To address this need this monograph presents a review of the published literature in this area providing background on the burden of disease the major causes of morbidity and mortality and the evidence base for effective interventions It also describes surveys of nongovernmental organizations NGOs and international agencies providing care to children in complex emergencies which were conducted to identify guidelines commonly used to provide such care and assesses the content and limitations of these guidelines A more in depth survey of several organizations was also conducted to assess obstacles to this kind of care On the basis of the survey findings and the review of the published literature the working group recommended that evidence based locally adapted guidelines to address the curative and preventive care of children in complex emergencies and health systems planning should be adopted by ministries of health and supported by the World Health Organization WHO and UNICEF The guidelines should target as much as possible the different levels of health care workers providing care to children to ensure appropriate effective and uniform care in a variety of situations Child Health in Complex Emergencies presents specific examples of areas for further research and guideline development This report is not intended to be an exhaustive and definitive assessment of child health in complex emergencies The topic is much too vast and complex and different individuals and institutions will have incompatible perspectives Rather we aim to provide a starting point for discussion and debate on how to improve the care of children in these settings

U.S. Foreign Policy and the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse Andrew S. Natsios, 1997-03-25 This book explores the emerging phenomenon of complex humanitarian emergencies and the evolving policies of the United States in responding to these emergencies In addition Andrew Natsios examines the relationship of disaster response to U S foreign policy and national interest and makes suggestions for improving both relief strategies and systems for designing those strategies To these issues Natsios brings his first hand experience in numerous key positions Mr Natsios provides case study analysis from these experiences over the past five years to illustrate the arguments presented in the book particularly regarding Somalia Angola Sudan Panama and Kuwait and Kurdistan following the Gulf War As former president George Bush indicates in his foreword to the volume this book will make a substantive contribution to continuing and enhancing vitally important work Of great interest to scholars researchers and policy makers in the areas of contemporary American foreign policy and humanitarian activities abroad Complex Emergencies and Humanitarian Response Mitsuru Yamada,Miki Honda,2018 Healing Communities in Conflict Kimberly A. Maynard,1999 5 Communities in Conflict Encyclopedia of International Development Tim Forsyth,2018-10-24 International development is now a major global activity and the focus of the rapidly growing academic discipline of development studies The Encyclopedia of International Development provides definitions and discussions of the key concepts controversies and actors associated with international development for a readership of development workers teachers and students With 600 entries ranging in length from shorter factual studies to more in depth essays a comprehensive system of cross references and a full index it is the most definitive guide to international development yet published Development is more than a simple increase in a country s wealth and living conditions It also implies increasing people s choices and freedoms it is change that is inclusive and empowering Development theory and practice has important applications to questions of economic growth trade governance education healthcare gender rights and environmental protection and it involves issues such as international aid peacekeeping famine relief and strategies against HIV AIDS The Encyclopedia treats these topics and many more and provides critical analyses of important actors within development such as the United Nations and World Bank non governmental organizations and corporations Contributors to this volume reflect the multidisciplinary and international nature of the subject They come from social science disciplines such as economics international studies political science and anthropology and from specialities such as medicine This Encyclopedia provides crucial information for universities students and professional organizations involved with international development and those interested in related topics such as international studies or other studies of social and economic change today Malaria eradication World Health Organization,2020-04-19 In 2016 at the request of the WHO Director General a group of scientists and public health experts from around the world were brought together to advise WHO on future scenarios for malaria including whether eradication was feasible Over three years the members of the Strategic Advisory Group on Malaria Eradication SAGme analysed trends and reviewed future projections for the factors and determinants that underpin malaria Our analysis and discussions reaffirmed that eradication will result in millions of lives saved and a return on investment of billions of dollars We did not identify biological or environmental barriers to malaria eradication In addition our review of models accounting for a variety of global trends in the human and biophysical environment over the next three decades suggests that the world of the future will have much less malaria to contend with However even with our most optimistic scenarios and projections we face an unavoidable fact using current tools we will still have 11 million cases of malaria in Africa in 2050 Under these circumstances it is impossible to set a target date for malaria eradication to formulate a reliable operational plan for malaria eradication or to give it a price tag Our current priority should be to establish the foundation for a successful future eradication effort At the same time we need to guard against the risk of failure as such failure might lead to the waste of huge sums of money frustrate all those involved national governments and malaria experts alike and cause a lack of confidence in the global health community s ability to rid the world of this disease We need a renewed drive towards research and development R D on vector control chemotherapy and vaccines in order to develop the transformative tools and knowledge base necessary for achieving eradication in the highest burden areas We need political leadership that makes effective and efficient use of increased domestic and international funding We need bespoke national and subnational strategies guided by improved use of data and stronger delivery systems to provide the appropriate mix of services to all those in need without financial hardship We need strengthened cross border regional and international cooperation on malaria control and elimination efforts worldwide When these critical foundations are laid we believe that the world will be in a much stronger position to make the final and credible push for eradication As we complete our work in 2019 we recognize that the world stands at a crossroads in the fight against malaria Despite huge progress in reducing malaria cases and deaths between 2000 and 2015 in the last five years we have witnessed the stalling of global progress The world is not on track to meet the 2020 milestones that will lead us to lower case incidence and mortality by 90% by 2030 from 2015 levels 5 Without massive concerted and coordinated action we are unlikely to meet these targets While we are certain that eradication by a specific date is not a promise we can make to the world just yet there is a clear agenda beginning with getting back on track to achieve the goals of the GTS that should immediately be pursued to make eradication possible Ciottone's Disaster Medicine - E-Book
