

Drastic Measures

Terry was determined to be a drummer. His parents were very supportive and bought him a drum set. They were supportive, that is, until it came to actually letting Terry practice. Terry's mother worked at home, and she didn't want him to practice when he got home from school because she was still working and was often on the phone.

By the time she was finished for the day, Terry's father was home. He didn't like his job, so he often came home in a lousy mood. He wanted peace and quiet, and he said Terry's drumming gave him a headache. Terry was frustrated. What was he going to do? The situation called for drastic measures.

Terry got an allowance every week for doing some chores. It wasn't a lot of money, but he tended to save it, so he had almost a hundred dollars in his piggy bank. He decided he needed to rent a practice space for his drums. But where? He asked all of his friends. Finally, his friend Pete extended him an offer. Both of Pete's parents were usually at work on weekdays until six p.m. For ten dollars a week, Pete would let Terry keep the drums in Pete's bedroom and come play them for two hours every day after school. Excited, Terry asked his parents. They agreed, after they checked with Pete's parents to make sure it was okay.

The very next day, Terry carried his drum set, one drum at a time, down the street to Pete's house, where he reassembled it in the corner of Pete's bedroom. Every day after school, Terry went to Pete's and played his drums for two hours. Pete got in the habit of taking two-hour-long walks after school because the drumming drove him crazy! But Pete didn't get an allowance, so he had decided he needed to take drastic measures if he was ever going to get his hands on any money!

Gary Waller,2013-03-12 We had our first conversation about cognition metacognition and reading in September of 1976 Our particular concern was with reading and learning to read and what if anything meta cognition might have to do with it all We didn t really know much about metacognition then of course but then most other people were in the same predicament Some people had been working with interesting approaches and results on metalanguage and reading among them J Downing L Ehri L Gleitman 1 Mattingly and E Ryan and it also was about that time that people were becoming aware of E Markman's first studies of comprehension monitoring. Other than that, perhaps the most influential item around was the perhaps already classic monograph by Kruetzer, Leonard and Flavell on what children know about their own memory. Also in the air at that time were things like A Brown's notions about knowing, knowing about knowing, and knowing how to know. D. Meichenbaum's ideas about cognitive behavior modification and the work by A. Brown and S. Smiley on the awareness of important units in text. Even though these developments were cited as new and innovative, it was not the case that psychologists had never before been of questions. They certainly interested in or concerned with metacognitive sorts had as clearly evidenced by the notion of metaplanes in Miller, Galanter and Pribram's Plans and the Structure of Behavior. Flash Forward Reading: Grade 6 (Flash Kids Flash Forward) Flash Kids Editors, 2008-01-25. As children encounter higher levels of reading difficulty, it is vital that they not only follow along with the text but also that they understand the meaning of what is being read. Comprehension is often very difficult for young readers, but practice is proven to develop it. Here to help your child with reading comprehension skills are almost one hundred pages of questions that accompany short stories of interest to readers in grades 1-6. Each book includes practice with skills such as who, what, when, where, why, and how; determining the sequence of events; identifying main ideas; and vocabulary analysis. Reading comprehension activities such as fill in the blanks, multiple choice, crossword puzzles, and matching. Colorful art. Answer keys.
