Joseph,2018-07-12 Recipes for your first time away from home which can be used easily in the microwave hot plate toaster oven crockpot or no cooking required With bonus recipes and fun facts included too As we all know eating out all the time especially at fast food restaurants is not always the healthiest choice This book was inspired after having kids in college and a barrage of phone calls regarding Hey Mom how do you cook this or that I had taught them not to eat out all the time but found that they were not quite fully prepared to cook everything they liked on their own as I had hoped they would be In addition I found myself taking for granted things that I assumed they already knew For example how long to boil an egg These hiccups if you will inspired me to write down common recipes for my kids Those recipes soon turned into this book Also taking into consideration that not all college students who live in dorms have access to a kitchen I have created this recipe book to include alternative cooking equipment such as using a crockpot for example They are however designed to be interchangeable in the event that there is a kitchen handy in which standard equipment can be used In addition there are many recipes which include no cooking required Though there is no substitute to parental advice along with these recipes I have included information that any parent would want their children to know such as safe handling instructions what to do in case of a fire how to treat a minor scrape or burn and I ve included tidbits of other useful information My goal is to make things a little easier for the students as well as their parents so they can concentrate on their studies Though inspired by my college kids these recipes are not necessarily limited to just students People living in campers tiny houses economy apartments new to cooking or simply just do not have the time to cook a full blown meal over the stove there are a lot of crockpot recipes will also find this book useful You college years are meant to be enjoyed so get creative and have fun with these recipes Bon App tit and happy eating
