Caught In A Web Intellectual Property In Cyberspace

Dan Jerker B. Svantesson

Caught In A Web Intellectual Property In Cyberspace:

Caught in a Web Richard Poynder, 2001-01 A new war is taking place in cyberspace File swapping services like Napster and Freenet are challenging the very raison d'etre of copyright corporate brands and trademarks are being regularly highjacked by cyber squatters and controversial new e-commerce patents are pushing at the boundaries of what is patentable. These developments have sparked a ferocious debate and raised a fundamental question: is traditional intellectual property fit for a web-based economy? Caught in a web charts this debate describes how courts and governments are struggling to adapt intellectual property laws to the new technology and interviews leading thinkers from both sides of the barricades.

Copyright World, 2000 Searching the Law, 3d Edition Frank Bae, Edward Bander, Francis Doyle, Joel Fishman, Paul Richert, 2021-12-13 Conceptualizing Copyright Exceptions in China and South Africa Jia Wang, 2018-03-01 This book critically evaluates the current copyright law system in a digital environment from a comparative perspective. Since many developing countries modelled their copyright laws on more advanced jurisdictions, they have not benefitted from such a law as much as intended due to their inherently embedded social, economic, and cultural conditions. Moreover, the copyright law system has been under constant challenges from rapidly developing digital technology and the Internet. All in all, there is a pressing need for developing countries to reevaluate their copyright law in light of their national needs, the developmental stage of their economy, their culture and tradition, and their legal system. The book poses the question of whether copyright law should be reformed to fulfill its fundamental purpose of serving education and research that are in the public interest in the digital era. It examines whether the legal frameworks adequately address developing countries' educational and research requirements in view of the opportunities and restrictions posed by electronic communication media. Further, it provides a comprehensive study that addresses the various critical issues relevant to the reform of the copyright law system and offers recommendations for developing countries to revamp their copyright law system to better serve their education and research sector.

Cyber Criminals on Trial Russell G. Smith, Peter Grabosky, Gregor Urbas, 2004-10-25 As computer-related crime becomes more important globally both scholarly and journalistic accounts tend to focus on the ways in which the crime has been committed and how it could have been prevented Very little has been written about what follows the capture possible extradition prosecution sentencing and incarceration of the cyber criminal Originally published in 2004 this book provides an international study of the manner in which cyber criminals are dealt with by the judicial process It is a sequel to the groundbreaking Electronic Theft Unlawful Acquisition in Cyberspace by Grabosky Smith and Dempsey Cambridge University Press 2001 Some of the most prominent cases from around the world are presented in an attempt to discern trends in the handling of cases and common factors and problems that emerge during the processes of prosecution trial and sentencing
