□□, 2003 Perspectives Studies in Translatology 2003 4      Evaluation and Translation Carol Maier, 2014-04-23 The definition of value or quality with respect to work in translation has historically been a particularly vexed issue Today however the growing demand for translations in such fields as technology and business and the increased scrutiny of translators work by scholars in many disciplines is giving rise to a need for more nuanced more specialized and more explicit methods of determining value Some refer to this determination as evaluation others use the term assessment Either way the question is one of measurement and judgement which are always unavoidably subjective and frequently rest on criteria that are not overtly expressed This means that devising more complex evaluative practices involves not only quantitative techniques but also an exploration of the attitudes preferences or individual values on which criteria are established Intended as an interrogation and a critique that can serve to prompt a more thorough and open consideration of evaluative criteria this special issue of The Translator offers examinations of diverse evaluative practices and contains both empirical and hermeneutic work Topics addressed include the evaluation of student translations using more up to date and positive methods such as those employed in corpus studies the translation of non standard language translation into the second language terminology the application of theoretical criteria to practice a social textual perspective and the reviewing of literary translations in the press In addition reviews by a number of literary translators discuss specific translations both into and out of English      Translation as Intercultural Communication Mary Snell-Hornby, Zuzana Jettmarová, Klaus Kaindl, 1997-08-21 This selection of 30 contributions 3 workshop reports 27 papers from 14 countries concentrates on intercultural communication in its broadest sense themes vary from dissident translation under the Marcos dictatorship in the Philippines and translation as a process of power in the 3rd world context to drama translation and the role of the cognitive sciences in translation theory Topics of current interest such as media interpreting news translation advertising subtitling and the ethics of translation have a prominent position as does the Workshop Contact as Conflict which discusses the phenomenon of the hybrid text as a result of the translation process The volume closes with the EST Focus debate on thorny issues of Methodology Policy and Training The volume demonstrates clearly the richness and breadth of the topics dealt with in Translation Studies today along with its complex interaction with neighbouring disciplines      Proceedings of the Bath Symposium Elena Minelli, Valerie Pellatt, 2009-05-27 Bath University set up its MA course in interpreting and translating in 1966 This volume celebrates forty years of interpreter and translator training at Bath The papers cover a range of interests from the history and development of the world class programme to the use of IT in the teaching and practice of translation Issues of teaching technique in both interpreting and translating quality assessment in the classroom and the workplace questions of detailed operation such as short term memory in interpreting and the evolution of lexis are all tackled The volume provides an example of the way in which professionals and academics can work together in this highly specialised field It reflects the principles and practice at the heart of the professions and the issues which relate to training and the work place in the modern world Contributors include past and present staff and students of the Bath MAIT and professionals and trainers from other well known institutions

Systematically Analysing Indirect Translations James Luke Hadley, 2023-05-11

This volume applies digital humanities methodologies to indirect translations in testing the concatenation effect hypothesis The concatenation effect hypothesis suggests that indirect translations tend to omit or alter identifiably foreign elements and also tend not to identify themselves as translations The book begins by introducing the methodological framework to be applied in the chapters that follow and providing an overview of the hypothesis The various chapters focus on specific aspects of the hypothesis that relate to specific linguistic stylistic and visual features of indirect translations These features provide evidence that can be used to assess whether and to what extent the concatenation effect is in evidence in any given example The overarching aim of the book is not to demonstrate or falsify the veracity of the concatenation effect hypothesis or to give any definitive answers to the research questions posed Rather the aim is to pique the curiosity and provoke the creativity of students and researchers in all areas of translation studies who may never have considered indirect translation as relevant to their work

Indirect Translation Alexandra Assis Rosa, Hanna Pięta, Rita Bueno Maia, 2020-06-05 In an effort to counter the marginalization of indirect translation in systematic research this book establishes innovative theoretical and methodological grounds and mitigates terminological instability in the field In so doing it unsettles the binary paradigms still predominant in translation research such as original versus translation and source versus target culture language text The contributors focus on the indirect translation of literature and cover a variety of European and Asian cultures and languages such as Assamese Bengali Catalan Chinese Hindi Japanese Kannada Malayalam Marathi Oriya Russian Spanish Swedish Tamil and Urdu This book will be of interest to all researchers studying intercultural relations the probabilistic genealogies of texts the circulation of texts and ideas among dominant and dominated cultures and groups and the implications of English as a main pivot language in today's world This book was originally published as a special issue of Translation Studies

English in the European Union Stefan Hinterholzer, 2007-08-26 Seminar paper from the year 2007 in the subject English Language and Literature

Studies Linguistics grade 1 University of Innsbruck English Department course English in Europe 14 entries in the bibliography language English abstract The European Union is not only an economic community It is also a unique language community in which each language has its place and its right to exist Today English is the dominant language in the world serving as a first or second language a working language a lingua franca etc for many people Nevertheless the position of the English language is not the same in the European Union as in a global context This paper will focus on the position of English in the European Union being only one of 23 official languages It will be analyzed in how far the dominance of English affects the other languages and the institutions of the European Union and to which extent English has the status of a European lingua franca On the other hand the influence of the other languages on English will be looked at which will lead us to the phenomenon of Euro English Finally the opposition of other language communities against the dominance of English will be discussed
