

Study Guide for Cell Cycle

Cell Division Notes:

- There are 3 main reasons why cells need to divide:
 1. To replace worn out cells
 2. To replace damaged cells
 3. Growth and Development
- Before a cell can divide, it must do two things:
 1. Copy DNA
 2. Copy Organelles

But why?
So that each new cell has a complete set of DNA and organelles
- Organisms with prokaryotic cells (bacteria) do a very simple process of dividing called binary fission. (draw below)
A diagram illustrating binary fission. It shows a single cell with a nucleus in its first stage. An arrow points to the second stage where the cell has doubled in size. Another arrow points to the third stage where the cell has divided into two smaller daughter cells, each with its own nucleus.
- However, eukaryotic organisms (like us!) go through a much more complicated process called the cell cycle, which is the dividing of non-sex cells. Sex cells divide using a different process called meiosis.
- We can divide this process into 3 main steps:
 - interphase - cell grows and DNA is copied (90% of time spent here)
 - mitosis - (4 steps) steps in which the nucleus's DNA actually divides
 - cytokinesis - cytoplasm splits and cell divides making two daughter cells
- In between each phase, there are checkpoints to make sure that the cell has done everything it needs to do correctly.
- If a mistake has happened, the cell usually fixes the mistake, but if it does not catch the mistake, the cell could malfunction (not work correctly).
- If cells do not divide correctly, mutations or cancer can occur.
