Against the New Politics of Identity

Ronald A. Lindsay, 2023-11-14 In Against the New Politics of Identity philosopher Ronald A Lindsay offers a sustained criticism of the far reaching cultural transformation occurring across much of the West by which individuals are defined primarily by their group identity such as race ethnicity gender identity and sexual orientation Driven largely by the political Left this transformation has led to the wholesale grouping of individuals into oppressed and oppressor classes in both theory and practice He warns that the push for identity politics on the Left predictably elicits a parallel reaction from the Right including the Right's own version of identity politics in the form of Christian nationalism As Lindsay makes clear the symbiotic relationship that has formed between these two political poles risks producing even deeper threats to Enlightenment values and Western democracy If we are to preserve a liberal democracy in which the rights of individuals are respected he concludes the dogmas of identity politics must be challenged and refuted Against the New Politics of Identity offers a principled path for doing so

A Contest without Winners Kate Phillippo, 2019-03-19 Seeing the consequences of competitive school choice policy through students eyes While policymakers often justify school choice as a means to alleviate opportunity and achievement gaps an unanticipated effect is increased competition over access to coveted high performing schools In A Contest without Winners Kate Phillippo follows a diverse group of Chicago students through the processes of researching applying to and enrolling in public high school Throughout this journey students prove themselves powerful policy actors who carry out and redefine competitive choice Phillippo's work amplifies the voices of students rather than the parents educators public intellectuals and policymakers who so often inform school choice research and investigates how students interact with and emerge from competitive choice academically developmentally and civically Through students experiences she shows how competitive choice legitimates and exacerbates existing social inequalities collides with students developmental vulnerability to messages about their ability merit and potential and encourages young people's individualistic actions as they come to feel that they must earn their educational rights From urban infrastructure to income inequality to racial segregation Phillippo examines the factors that shape students policy enactment and interpretation as policymakers and educators ask students to compete for access to public resources With competitive choice even the winners the lucky few admitted to their dream schools don't outright win A Contest without Winners challenges meritocratic and market driven notions of opportunity creation for young people and raises critical questions about the goals we have for public schooling
