

How to use Chase QuickPay

How does Chase QuickPay work?

1. You set up a payment

2. Your recipient receives a message

3. Your recipient signs up (if new to this service)

4. Your recipient receives your payment

1. You set up a payment

You can send money to nearly anyone with a U.S. bank account. All you need is the email address or mobile phone number of the person you're paying.*

* Limitations apply. Message and data rates may apply. Such charges include those from your communications service provider.

2. Your recipient receives a message

Your recipient gets an email or text message from Chase that explains how to receive your payment. Or if your recipient's bank participates in the clearXchange network, his or her bank will notify the recipient of the payment.

3. Your recipient signs up (if new to this service)

Your recipient must register the email address or mobile number you used to send them the money – either through Chase QuickPay or a participating bank in the clearXchange network.

The exact enrollment process depends on whether your recipient banks with Chase.
