Cheated Not Poisoned Cheated Not Poisoned:

Germes in the English Workplace, c.1880-1945 Laura Newman, 2021-02-15 This book looks at how the workplace was transformed through a greater awareness of the roles that germs played in English working lives from c 1880 to 1945 Cutting across a diverse array of occupational settings such as the domestic kitchen the milking shed the factory and the Post Office it offers new perspectives on the history of the germ sciences It brings to light the ways in which germ scientists sought to transform English working lives through new types of technical and educational interventions that sought to both eradicate and instrumentalise germs It then asks how we can measure and judge the success of such interventions by tracing how workers responded to the potential applications of the germ sciences through their participation in friendly societies trade unions colleges and volunteer organisations Throughout the book close attention is paid to reconstructing vernacular traditions of working with invisible life in order to better understand both the successes and failures of the germ sciences to transform the working practices and material conditions of different workplaces The result is a more diverse history of the peoples politics and practices that went into shaping the germ sciences in late nineteenth and early twentieth century England

Food Poisoning, Policy, and Politics David F. Smith, H. Lesley Diack, 2005 Study of the 1963 4 typhoid outbreak highlighting issues and debates which are strikingly relevant today The problem of food poisoning and food borne infections is currently one of vigorous debate highlighted since the 1980s by numerous outbreaks and scares involving salmonella in lettuce and eggs listeria in cheese the links between vCJD and BSE E Coli 0157 in cooked meats and foot and mouth disease Yet as this book shows the various issues involved were important as early as 1963 4 when there were serious typhoid outbreaks in Harlow South Shields Bedford and Aberdeen traced to contaminated corned beef imported from Argentina Based upon extensive research using archives which have only recently become available private papers and interviews as well as secondary literature the book analyses the course of the outbreak and looks at the responses of politicians officials health professionals business interests the media and the public It also considers the difficult issue of the weighing off food safety against international trade and other business and economic interests conflicts between government departments rivalry between professionals such as doctors and veterinarians the effects upon and influence of victims and local communities and the conduct of and responses to an official enquiry Overall it draws out generic lessons for how such epidemics should be handled adding an historical perspective to contemporary debates

Consumerism in Twentieth-Century Britain Matthew Hilton, 2003-11-13 This book is the first comprehensive history of consumerism as an organised social and political movement Matthew Hilton offers a groundbreaking account of consumer movements ideologies and organisations in twentieth century Britain He argues that in organisations such as the Co operative movement and the Consumers Association individual concern with what and how we spend our wages led to forms of political engagement too often overlooked in existing accounts of twentieth century history He explores how the consumer and consumerism came to be regarded by many as a third force in society with the potential to free politics from the perceived stranglehold of the self interested actions of employers and trade unions Finally he recovers the visions of countless consumer activists who saw in consumption a genuine force for liberation for women the working class and new social movements as well as a set of ideas often deliberately excluded from more established political organisations Diet for a Large Planet Chris Otter,2020-10-12 A history of the unsustainable modern diet heavy in meat wheat and sugar that requires more land and resources than the planet is able to support We are facing a world food crisis of unparalleled proportions Our reliance on unsustainable dietary choices and agricultural systems is causing problems both for human health and the health of our planet Solutions from lab grown food to vegan diets to strictly local food consumption are often discussed but a central question remains how did we get to this point In Diet for a Large Planet Chris Otter goes back to the late eighteenth century in Britain where the diet heavy in meat wheat and sugar was developing As Britain underwent steady growth urbanization industrialization and economic expansion the nation altered its food choices shifting away from locally produced plant based nutrition This new diet rich in animal proteins and refined carbohydrates made people taller and stronger but it led to new types of health problems Its production also relied on far greater acreage than Britain itself forcing the nation to become more dependent on global resources Otter shows how this issue expands beyond Britain looking at the global effects of large agro food systems that require more resources than our planet can sustain This comprehensive history helps us understand how the British played a significant role in making red meat white bread and sugar the diet of choice linked to wealth luxury and power and shows how dietary choices connect to the pressing issues of climate change and food supply First Report of the Royal Commission Appointed to Inquire Into Arsenical Poisoning from the Consumption of Beer and Other Articles of Food Or Drink Great Britain. Royal Commission on Arsenical Poisoning,1903 An Innocent Cheat Thomas Cooper DeLeon,1898 The Medical Examiner and General Practitioner ,1908 The Sanitary Record ,1874 The Lancet ,1874 A Digest of the Cases Reported in the Punjab Record Henry Tullie Rivaz,1887 Cheating the Junk-pile Ethel Rose Peyser,1922 The American Federationist ,1905 Includes separately paged Junior union section American Federationist ,1905 International Journal of Ethics ,1916 Book Review Index ,2004 Every 3rd issue is a quarterly cumulation Virginia Reports ,1902 Michigan Manufacturer & Financial Record ,1916 Hansard's Parliamentary Debates Great Britain.
