Economic Life of Mexican Beach Vendors Tamar Diana Wilson, 2012-11-03 Economic Life of Mexican Beach Vendors Acapulco, Puerto Vallarta and Cabo San Lucas is based on interviews with 82 men and 84 women who vend their wares on beaches in three Mexican tourist centers. Assuming that some people may actively choose self-employment in the informal or semi-informal economy, the employment and educational aspirations of the vendors and their levels of satisfaction with their work are explored. Most of the vendors had other family members who were also vendors and 75.45% had 5 or more family members who vended, most usually on Mexican beaches. The vendors are aware of the forces of globalization, though they do not express these forces in those words as revealed by their responses to questions as to how the current world economic recession has affected them. The beach vendors live in essentially segregated neighborhoods that can be considered apartheid-like, far from the tourist zones. Most of the vendors or their parents are rural-to-urban migrants and cross ethnic, linguistic and economic borders as they migrate to and work in what have been called transnational social spaces. Of the vendors interviewed, 82.49% speak an indigenous language and of these, 60.73% speak Nahuatl. The majority are from the state of Guerrero, but there were also Zapotec speakers from Oaxaca. Both indigenous and non-indigenous women take part in beach vending. They are often wives, daughters or sisters of male beach vendors and they may be single, married, living in free union or widowed. Their income is often of central importance to the household economy. This monograph aims to bring their stories to tourists and to scholars and students of tourism development and/or the informal or semi-informal economy in Mexican tourist centers. Organisational Behaviour: Engaging People and Organisations Ricky W. Griffin, Jean M. Phillips, Stanley M. Gully, Andrew Creed, Lynn Gribble, Moira Watson, 2023-10-01 Organisational Behaviour: Engaging People and Organisations is the only Organisational Behaviour text in the ANZ market to deliver a unique integrated learning model for the discipline and incorporate a critical perspective to a mainstream approach. The integrative model takes a robust approach by encompassing five levels of analysis: environment, individual, groups, leadership and organisation, and demonstrating how each relates to one another. It teaches a contemporary approach to Organisational Behaviour that aims to understand rather than control human behaviour in organisations. This EPAA award-winning resource
