The significant concepts and contributions historically that have served as foundations for contemporary administrative practices are underscored. Guidance is given to administrative leaders for dealing with ongoing organizational changes; this is an important focus of the book. Employee disengagement is a problem for businesses around the globe, with 85% of employees actively disengaged from their work. By 2025, Gen Z will account for one third of the workforce, according to the World Economic Forum, and a growing challenge is how to adapt organizations to effectively include this group. Companies must now redesign long established practices to include rapid integration, gamified rewards, mixed generation teams, and multigeneration training in ways that will capitalize on the current behaviors of Gen Z as well as other worker groups. This book provides the measures companies can take to forge productive relationships between Gen Z and older, more experienced employees. An approach that can be readily applied by senior executives and managers to engage Gen Z employees and to address the disengagement problem more broadly. Implementable solutions on how five traditional practices: onboarding, leadership, culture, motivation, and benefits can be altered in companies to improve Gen Z productivity.
