Parallel Programming Thomas Rauber, Gudula Rünger, 2023-04-04 This textbook covers the new development in processor architecture and parallel hardware. It provides detailed descriptions of parallel programming techniques that are necessary for developing efficient programs for multicore processors as well as for parallel cluster systems and supercomputers. The book is structured in three main parts covering all areas of parallel computing: the architecture of parallel systems, parallel programming models and environments, and the implementation of efficient application algorithms. The emphasis lies on parallel programming techniques needed for different architectures. In particular, this third edition includes an extended update of the chapter on computer architecture and performance analysis, taking new developments such as the aspect of energy consumption into consideration. The description of OpenMP has been extended and now also captures the task concept of OpenMP. The chapter on message passing programming has been extended and updated to include new features of MPI such as extended reduction operations and non-blocking collective communication operations. The chapter on GPU programming also has been updated. All other chapters also have been revised carefully. The main goal of this book is to present parallel programming techniques that can be used in many situations for many application areas and to enable the reader to develop correct and efficient parallel programs. Many example programs and exercises are provided to support this goal and to show how the techniques can be applied to further applications. The book can be used as a textbook for students as well as a reference book for professionals. The material of the book has been used for courses in parallel programming at different universities for many years.

particularly the manufacturing sector have been facing difficult challenges in a context of socio economic turbulence characterized by complexity as well as the speed of change in causal interconnections in the socio economic environment In order to respond to these challenges companies are forced to seek new technological and organizational solutions In this context two main characteristics emerge as key properties of a modern automation system agility and distribution Agility because systems need not only to be flexible in order to adjust to a number of a priori defined scenarios but rather must cope with unpredictability Distribution in the sense that automation and business processes are becoming distributed and supported by collaborative networks Emerging Solutions for Future Manufacturing Systems includes the papers selected for the BASYS 04 conference which was held in Vienna Austria in September 2004 and sponsored by the International Federation for Information Processing IFIP ECCTD'83 E.
