Concealed Weapon Laws of the Early Republic Clayton E. Cramer, 1999-08-30 Cramer's work examines the motivations and legislative history behind the nation's first laws regulating the carrying of concealed deadly weapons and establishes a previously unexplored link between these laws and efforts to suppress dueling in the southern back country. Earlier attempts to analyze these laws focused upon efforts to maintain slavery by severely restricting the rights of free blacks if free blacks could not possess arms and lacked other basic rights slaves would be less inclined to seek their freedom. Cramer rejects such thinking by demonstrating that the concealed weapon laws of the early republic were not racially motivated. He further supports the work of other scholars who have lately examined the role of Scots Irish immigrants in creating a distinctive southern back country culture of honor violence including dueling and brawling. It was the attempt to control such violence Cramer argues that led to the concealed weapons laws. Thus rather than considering gun control laws primarily as legal or constitutional history this study starts from a cultural and historical viewpoint. Southern state legislatures sought to improve the morals of their back country population through increasingly severe punishments for dueling. When judges and juries regularly refused to convict duelists these legislatures created extrajudicial punishments by requiring elected and appointed officials as well as lawyers to swear oaths of non participation in dueling. Young men obsessed with honor and reluctant to perjure themselves for fear of damaging their public reputation soon took to carrying

Bowie knives and handguns with which to kill those who insulted them a perfectly honorable action to much of the population The state legislatures then severely regulated carrying of concealed deadly weapons in the hope of suppressing the bloody results of what had been until then an accepted practice Campus Crime Bonnie S. Fisher, John J. Sloan, III, 2022-09-19

This new edition of Campus Crime shares with readers the advancements that have been made in understanding campus crime. Across the three sections of the book chapters review changes while also addressing current and even future crime and security issues confronting institutions of higher education. Some of these chapters address long standing topics such as the sexual victimization of college women and the role of campus police departments in securing IHEs. Other chapters address new issues in campus crime such as drugging, victimization, concealed carrying of firearms on campus and technology based security issues such as the challenges posed by cybercriminals as well as activities like cyberstalking and identity theft that involve campus community members both as victims and offenders. Although there are new topics and contributors to this edition, the previously covered chapters have been updated as well. The authors have brought together contributors who could provide both a current picture and critical analysis of issues concerning the legal, social, security and policy contexts of campus crime. The chapters review topics at hand offer substantive critical analyses thought provoking discussion and raise relevant policy issues, questions and answers. This fourth edition combines seasoned campus crime experts with those relatively new to the study of campus crime who represent the next generation of scholars and practitioners in the field and bring with them the passion that comes with beginning to address what they see as the issues, explanations, solutions for and responses to campus crime. Criminal Law Magazine, 1886 Congressional Record

Jonathan M. Metzl, 2024-01-30 Finalist for the Tennessee Book Awards A New York Times Book Review Editors Choice A Kirkus Reviews Best Book of the Year. We need this book now Michael Eric Dyson New York Times best selling author of Tears We Cannot Stop A Sermon to White America A searing reflection on the broken promise of safety in America. When a naked, mentally ill white man with an AR 15 killed four young adults of color at a Waffle House Nashville based physician and gun policy scholar Dr. Jonathan M. Metzl once again advocated for commonsense gun reform. But as he peeled back evidence surrounding the racially charged mass shooting a shocking question emerged Did the public health approach he had championed for years have it all wrong. Long at the forefront of a movement advocating for gun reform as a matter of public health Metzl has been on constant media call in the aftermath of fatal shootings. But the 2018 Nashville killings led him on a path toward recognizing the limitations of biomedical frameworks for fully diagnosing or treating the impassioned complexities of American gun politics. As he came to understand it public health is a harder sell in a nation that fundamentally disagrees about what it means to be safe healthy or free In What We've Become Metzl reckons both with the long history of distrust of public health and the larger forces social ideological historical racial and political that allow mass shootings to occur on a near daily basis in America Looking closely at the cycle in which mass shootings lead to shock horror calls for action and ultimately political gridlock he explores what happens to the soul of a nation and the meanings of safety and community when we normalize violence as an acceptable trade off for freedom Mass shootings and our inability to stop them have become more than horrific crimes they are an American national autobiography This brilliant piercing analysis points to mass shootings as a symptom of our most unresolved national conflicts What We've Become ultimately sets us on the path of alliance forging racial reckoning and political power brokering we must take to put things right Tennessee
