A key element in the formal liberalisation of the global marketplace is the codification of relations between states and foreign investors. Such codification has become an essential complement to the existing elaborate rules governing trade flows since trade and investment increasingly complement each other. This book presents a collection of papers that document the current state of international investor-state relations, examine the technical and theoretical issues underlying the need for multilateral rules on investment and discuss proposals for the content and process of such a rule-making initiative. Topics of the papers consider such matters as existing investment instruments, negotiation of an agreement on foreign direct investment, lessons learned from NAFTA, investment barriers, private and public impediments to market presence and tax harmonisation.
