Gonzalez, 2017 Children's views of Catholic saints were analyzed by exploring which saints Latino children favored in relation to how they viewed their own closeness to their mothers There were 23 participants enrolled in kindergarten first grade and second grade and attending a private Catholic school The participants were asked to perform 4 tasks which included drawing an image of their favorite saint writing a personal letter to their favorite saint doing a circle activity assessing their perceived closeness to others and being interviewed Additionally the parents of the participants were asked about their favorite saint Results suggested that there was a non significant trend for children who placed themselves closer to their mothers in the circle task to favor a different saint than that of their mother Furthermore a non significant trend was detected for children who selected their own saint to be relationally closer to their saint than children who selected their mothers saint Finally children who viewed themselves as closer to God tended to view themselves farther away from their saint or vice versa in the circle task Implications and limitation of the study were discussed    Saint Catherine of Siena Mary Fabyan Windeatt, 1993-04 Oh but I must hurry thought young Catherine very early one morning as she picked up a loaf of bread and a jug of water from the kitchen No one must suspect anything Catherine had made up her mind to run away She wanted to become a hermit in a cave so she could pray and think about God all day long Catherine slipped out the door and into the court yard then out into the cobbled street then out beyond the city gates Farther and farther she walked Several hours went by The countryside was growing wilder and stranger I am miles and miles away from home now said Catherine to herself Suddenly there it was A beautiful cave It looked like the perfect place Catherine was overjoyed But was Catherine really old enough to be a hermit And wouldn't her father come looking for her to take her home Most of all was it really God's will for her to be a hermit This book gives the answers It also tells how Catherine cut off her hair how she cared for the rude old woman how she saved her dear father from Purgatory and how she advised the Holy Father himself All in all this is the wonderful story of how little Catherine became one of the very greatest saints in the Catholic Church
