shape shifting Marsh's novel is of a piece with other sensational turn of the 19th to 20th century fictions such as Stoker's Dracula George du Maurier's Trilby and Sax Rohmer's Fu Manchu novels. Like Dracula and many of the sensation novels pioneered by Wilkie Collins and others in the 1860s The Beetle is narrated from the perspectives of multiple characters a technique used in many late 19th century novels those of Wilkie Collins and Stoker for example to create suspense and to confuse gender boundaries

Richard Marsh - The Datchet Diamonds Richard Marsh, 2018-03-12 Richard Bernard Heldmann was born on 12th October 1857 in St Johns Wood North London. By his early 20s Heldmann began publishing fiction for the myriad magazine publications that had sprung up and were eager for good well written content. In October 1882 Heldmann was promoted to co editor of Union Jack a popular magazine but his association with the publication ended suddenly in June 1883. It appears Heldman was prone to issuing forged cheques to finance his lifestyle. In April 1884 He was sentenced to 18 months hard labour. In order to be well away from the scandal and damage this had caused to his reputation Heldmann adopted a pseudonym on his release from jail. Shortly thereafter the name Richard Marsh began to appear in the literary periodicals. The use of his mother's maiden name as part of it seems both a release and a lifeline. A stroke of very good fortune arrived with his novel The Beetle published in 1897. This would turn out to be his greatest commercial success and added some much needed gravitas to his literary reputation. Marsh was a prolific writer and wrote almost 80 volumes of fiction as well as many short stories across many genres from horror and crime to romance and humour.

The Datchet Diamonds Richard Marsh, 2018-11-13 Richard Marsh 12 October 1857 9 August 1915 was the pseudonym of the English author born Richard Bernard Heldmann. A best selling and prolific author of the late 19th century and the Edwardian period. Marsh is best known now for his supernatural thriller novel The Beetle which was published the same year as Bram Stoker's Dracula 1897 and was initially even more popular. The Beetle remained in print until 1960. Marsh produced nearly 80 volumes of fiction and numerous short stories in genres including horror crime romance and humour. Many of these have been republished recently beginning with The Beetle in 2004. Marsh's grandson Robert Aickman was a notable writer of short strange stories. Richard Bernard Heldmann was born on 12 October 1857 in North London to lace merchant Joseph Heldmann 1827 96 and Emma Marsh 1830 1911 a lace manufacturer's daughter. Heldmann began publishing fiction during 1880 in the form of boys school and adventure stories for magazine publications. The most important of these was Union Jack a quality boys weekly magazine associated with authors G A Henty 1832 1902 and W H G Kingston 1814 80. Henty promoted the young Heldmann to the position of co editor in October 1882 but Heldmann's association with the publication was ended abruptly in June 1883. After this Bernard Heldmann published no further fiction under that name and began to use the pseudonym Richard Marsh a few years later.

The Datchet Diamonds Richard Marsh, Stanley L. Wood, 2019-04-15 In The Datchet Diamonds Richard Marsh weaves a tale that intricately combines elements of mystery romance and the supernatural reflecting the anxieties of Edwardian society. The narrative revolves around a stolen diamond intertwining the lives of its owners and the clues that lead to its recovery Marsh's literary style is characterized by vivid imagery and psychological depth employing rich descriptive language that immerses the reader into a world where societal norms are challenged by personal desires and hidden motives. This work stands as a notable example of the fin de siècle literature addressing themes of wealth, moral decline, and the complexities of human relationships within a rapidly changing society. Richard Marsh, an often overlooked figure in the literary landscape of the early 20th century, had a background in literature and journalism which undoubtedly influenced his nuanced storytelling. His understanding of the era's social dynamics and fascination with the macabre allow him to craft narratives that delve into the darker corners of the human psyche. Having experienced the shifts in societal structures and beliefs, Marsh brings a fresh perspective that resonates with contemporary readers. The Datchet Diamonds is a compelling read for enthusiasts of classic mystery and those intrigued by the psychological intricacies of interpersonal relationships. Marsh's exploration of moral ambiguity and character-driven plots invites readers to reflect on their own ethical dilemmas. This novel not only entertains but also provides critical insights into the complexities of desire and ambition, making it a timeless addition to any literary collection.
