Conditioned Taste Aversion Neural And Behavioral Processes:

Conditioned Taste Aversion Steve Reilly,Todd R. Schachtman,2008-10-14 Conditioned taste aversion is arguably the most important learning process that humans and animals possess because it prevents the repeated self administration of toxic food It has not only profoundly influenced the content and direction of learning theory but also has important human nutritional and clinical significance In addition to its direct relevance to food selection dietary habits and eating disorders it is significant for certain clinical populations that develop it as a consequence of their treatment The study of conditioned taste aversions has invigorated new theory and research on drug conditioning and addictions as well as on conditioned immunity There has also been a substantial amount of recent research exploring the neural substrates of conditioned taste aversion its neuroanatomy pharmacology and role in the molecular and cellular basis of plasticity This book provides a definitive perspective on the current state of research theory and clinical applications for conditioned taste aversion effects and methodology In each chapter a leading scholar in the field presents a broad range of studies along with current findings on the topic highlighting both the major theoretical landmarks and the significant new perspectives It will be an important resource for both professional and student researchers who study conditioning learning plasticity eating disorders and dietary and ingestive behaviors in neuroscience cognitive neuroscience cognitive psychology developmental psychology clinical psychology psychopharmacology and medicine   Conditioned Taste Aversion ,2009    21st Century

Psychology: A Reference Handbook Stephen F. Davis,William Buskist,2008 Highlights the most important topics issues questions and debates in the field of psychology Provides material of interest for students from all corners of psychological studies whether their interests be in the biological cognitive developmental social or clinical arenas   Learning and Behavior James E. Mazur,Amy L. Odum,2023-05-09 Learning and Behavior reviews how people and animals learn and how their behaviors are changed because of learning It describes the most important principles theories controversies and experiments that pertain to learning and behavior that are applicable to diverse species and different learning situations Both classic studies and recent trends and developments are explored providing a comprehensive survey of the field Although the behavioral approach is emphasized many cognitive theories are covered as well along with a chapter on comparative cognition Real world examples and analogies make the concepts and theories more concrete and relevant to students In addition most chapters provide examples of how the principles covered have been employed in applied and clinical behavior analysis The text proceeds from the simple to the complex The initial chapters introduce the behavioral cognitive and neurophysiological approaches to learning Later chapters give extensive coverage of classical conditioning and operant conditioning beginning with basic concepts and findings and moving to theoretical questions and current issues Other chapters examine the topics of reinforcement schedules avoidance and punishment stimulus control and concept learning observational learning and motor skills comparative cognition and choice Thoroughly updated each chapter features many new studies and references that reflect recent developments in the field Learning objectives bold faced key terms practice quizzes a chapter summary review questions and a glossary are included The text is intended for undergraduate or graduate courses in psychology of learning human learning introduction to learning learning processes animal behavior principles of learning and behavior conditioning and learning learning and motivation experimental analysis of behavior behaviorism and behavior analysis

Latent Inhibition and Conditioned Attention Theory Robert E. Lubow,1989-09-29

Latent inhibition is an exquisitely simple robust and pervasive behavioural phenomenon the reduced ability of an organism to learn new associations to previously inconsequential stimuli It has been demonstrated in a variety of animals including humans across many different learning tasks

Developmental Time and Timing Gerald Turkewitz,Darlynne A.

Devenny,2013-09-05 Many theorists now believe that development emerges out of the coming together of multiple influences on the developing organism To understand development not only is it important to identify these influences but it is necessary to describe their relationship to one another In this dynamic view of development emergent organization is the result of the components of development coming together Timing is concerned with the relationship between components that have different rates of development This book brings together the work of several investigators who have contributed to our understanding of the impact of timing on development through the examination of different functions and different organisms By juxtaposing their work it is possible to see that the concept of timing has explanatory value at various levels of organization for the understanding of development The book's unifying theme allows the reader to make conceptual analogies across species and across levels of organization without being reductionistic Presenting the work of researchers in developmental and experimental psychology biopsychology neuropsychology life span development and medicine the book offers a theoretical base from which to examine the value of using timing as a construct and specific examples of research programs which have utilized timing to frame their research questions

Conditioned Taste Aversion Jan Bures,F. Bermudez-Rattoni,T. Yamamoto,1998-05-28 Conditioned taste aversion CTA is a robust defence device protecting animals against repeated consumption of toxic food It is characterised by the ability of many animals to learn to avoid certain substances by their sight smell or taste after experiencing an unpleasant or harmful reaction to them CTA is encountered at all levels of evolution with similar forms of food aversion learning found in vertebrate and invertebrate species whose ancestral lines diverged more than 500 million years ago CTA has a number of unusual properties contrasting sharply with the basic assumptions of traditional learning theories which has brought it increasingly to the attention of neurobiologists interested in neural plasticity In CTA the usual time parameters between stimulus and aversion are relaxed considerably frequently with delays of hours rather than seconds Moreover the critical stage of CTA acquisition may proceed under deep anaesthesia incompatible with other forms of learning In the past decade several pivotal discoveries have considerably advanced our understanding of the neural processes underlying CTA and opened new possibilities for their analysis at the molecular and cellular levels This book written by three of the world's leading researchers in the subject comprehensively reviews the current state of research into conditioned taste aversion The first book of its kind to provide an up to date summary of research into the neuroanatomy pharmacology electrophysiology and functional morphology of CTA it will be welcomed by all researchers and graduate students in the field Experimental Assessments and Clinical Applications of Conditioned Food Aversions Norman S.
